

Anything Goes No Waste Chocolate log

Ingredients

You can use anything you have, I used:

Handful of pistachios
Handful goji berries
Few dried figs
Handful chopped almonds
Biscuits (I used broken biscuits and crumbs - optional)
200g dark chocolate, melted
1 tsp coconut oil

Directions

1. Simply mix in any odds and ends you have (anything goes!)
You can use any chocolate, nuts, seeds broken biscuits, dried fruits, and berries. Mix into melted chocolate, shape the mixture into a log by rolling using baking paper, or you can add to a loaf tin lined with baking paper and let it set in the fridge.
2. Decorate how you like

After the holidays, there is always extra chocolate, fruits and nuts lying around, so I love making this no waste chocolate log with the kids. It's an easy fun way to turn those leftovers into a delicious treat, and a perfect reminder that reducing waste can be simple.

I made this log with chocolate and nuts I got from the food bank that were close to expiration date.
